STATE APPROPRIATION AS A PERCENT OF TOTAL BUDGET

The University's budget — which includes the academic component of the Health Sciences schools — is approximately $1.29 billion. Given state appropriation reductions since 2013, current state appropriations account for only about 15% of the total WVU budget. This means that your support for WVU is now more critical than ever.

WVU HEALTH SYSTEM

- The WVU Health System is West Virginia's largest health system and the state's largest employer with more than 3,400 licensed beds, 4,600 providers, and 35,000 employees.
- As of Jan. 1, 2026, the WVU Health System comprises 25 hospitals — including J.W. Ruby Memorial Hospital, an 880-bed academic medical center, and the 150-bed WVU Medicine Golisano Children's Hospital in Morgantown — and five institutes. Pending necessary approvals, Independence Health System's five Pennsylvania hospitals will join WVU Medicine in fall 2026.
- The WVU Cancer Institute is making strategic investments in cancer care and research to achieve the state's first National Cancer Institute designation.
